

Dear Theater Parents,

As parents of young actors, we all want to see our children thrive in an environment that nurtures their love for theater, builds their confidence, and allows them to grow both artistically and personally.

If you've been feeling that your child's current theater experience isn't quite what you hoped for—whether it's the atmosphere, the approach, or simply a program that balances excellence with encouragement—there's an exciting new opportunity in Belmont/Arlington that might be just what you're looking for.

A Broadway Kids Company, a multi-award-winning children's program, is coming to Arlington/Belmont! Christopher T. Parsons, a dedicated theater educator and director, brings with him 11 years of experience as the Theater Arts Teacher at Belmont Day School. His creative vision and supportive teaching style have inspired countless young performers. Christopher's previous work as a Disney Puppeteer adds an extra layer of fun and creativity to his approach, sure to bring joy to your children.

What Sets Us Apart

Every child deserves a chance to shine—without waiting years for a speaking role. At A Broadway Kids Company (ABC), we create a supportive, engaging space where young performers (ages 6-13) can build confidence, develop skills, and discover their unique voices through the magic of musical theatre.

We are dedicated to providing age-appropriate opportunities that challenge and inspire young performers while ensuring the material is accessible and enriching. Too often, this crucial age group is overlooked in favor of older, more experienced actors. At ABC, we believe in giving every child the chance to take center stage and grow as an artist, regardless of experience.

At ABC, we foster a safe, supportive, and positive environment where children are empowered to take risks, push their boundaries, and develop a lifelong love for theatre. Our productions are designed to ensure that all performers—no matter their age or skill level—have meaningful opportunities to shine. We do all this while still giving a high caliber show that showcases their talent and hard work. We are not just putting on shows; we are cultivating young artists, fostering creativity, and building confidence through the art of musical theatre.

With Chris's direction and A Broadway Kids Company, this is a dynamic combination that will surely exceed your expectations.
